STORM CHASER: A Photographer's Journey

7 p.m.

Members $15; Public $20

A remarkable work of art...Jim Reed captures the exquisite tension between the beauty and the raw power of nature at its most elemental. –The World Café

Weather is a universal experience, but there are few people who have experienced extreme weather first-hand as Jim Reed has. On this extraordinary night of art and nature, Reed takes to the Corcoran stage and shares – with his stunning images --what it feels like to be within one-hundred-fifty feet of a twister, to be inside the dead-calm of a monstrous category four hurricane, and to survive a direct hit by Katrina. Reed has been singled out as one of the most unique and interpretive photographers working today, and his credits include National Geographic, Nikon, The New York Times, Reader's Digest, Time Magazine, and Discovery Channel, to name a few. He signs copies of his book following the talk.
